Welcome to Student Affairs

Mission and Vision Statements:

The mission of the Division of Student Affairs is to engage, inspire, and challenge students through inclusive, holistic, student-centered programming. Our vision is “to promote academic success, health and wellness, service to others, civic engagement, appreciation of diversity, personal responsibility, and leadership.” We strive to fulfill our mission and implement our vision by improving and promoting “positive relationships and satisfaction throughout the division, within and between various levels and offices and between students and the division, including relationships with students.”

As I consider the preceding statements, four key words stand out to me:

1) Success 2) Service 3) Relationships and 4) Satisfaction. All four of these terms are inextricably connected. In other words, success (ours and our students’) depends entirely upon how effectively we render service and build strong, positive relationships with each other and our students. Moreover, satisfaction (ours and our students’) is built upon a solid foundation of the other three concepts combined.

As important as these four concepts are, however, there is one other unspoken element that trumps them all. This has to do with the unique attributes (our personal touch, if you will) that each of us brings to bear in our work. Nothing is more important than your smile, the way you connect with people, and the way that you handle difficult situations and find effective solutions to problems. The programs and policies we have created to help us fulfill our mission, realize our vision and attain our goals are empty and lifeless without the personal energy with which you infuse them.

How to Become a True Aggie... Today one can become a “True Aggie” by receiving a kiss on the “A” under a full moon at midnight by somebody who already is a “True Aggie”, or on Homecoming or A-Day by somebody who is not. The True Aggie tradition is run by the Student Alumni Association. You can find the “A” in front of our Historic Old Main building.

“Old Main is the landmark of Utah State University and remains the oldest academic building still in use in the State of Utah.”

The Scotsman
Show me the Scotsman who doesn’t love the thistle
Show me the Englishman who doesn’t love the rose
Show me the true blooded Aggie from Utah
Who doesn’t love the spot where the sagebrush grows!!

Utah State Fight Song
Hail the Utah Aggies, we’ll play the game with all our might. See the colors flying, The Aggie Blue and Fighting White. How they stir us onward! We’ll gain the victory, All Right! Hail the Utah Aggies, we’re out to win so Fight! Fight! Fight!

Utah State Hey! Aggies all the way!
Go Aggies! Go Aggies! Hey! Hey! Hey!
Aggie Ice Cream

You scream, I scream,
We all scream for Aggie Ice Cream......

Why is it so good? Well, Aggie Ice Cream has a 12% butterfat content. It’s aged slightly longer and contains less air than most commercial brands. People loved it so much, more flavors were created. Now, Aggie Ice Cream has 26 different flavors and is known around the world. While instructive, the creamery was also operated on a commercial basis, and students and visitors to campus could purchase cheese, butter, or generous portions of ice cream at the Dairy Products Laboratory in the Animal Science Building. Ice cold buttermilk could generally be had for the asking. The first taste of Aggie Ice Cream became a rite-of-passage on campus, and is fondly remembered by many students and alumni. So how is it known around the world? A Korean USU student named Duk-Man Lee loved the ice-cream so much, he devised a plan to take it home with him. He gathered a group of Korean business men, who proposed the idea to USU, and in June 2000, the first international Aggie Ice Cream was opened in Seoul, South Korea. Not only that, but Aggie Ice Cream was also the first ice cream to make it to outer space, thanks to USU’s aerospace technologies division.

Big Blue

Are you Big Blue? Probably not, however, you may not have known that Utah State’s mascot has some deep history. Originally Big Blue was a real white bull painted blue before each game. When the Spectrum was first built, however, there was concern that Big Blue would scuff up the new basketball court, so Big Blue was donned with red rubber boots. This was a disaster. Because of the damage done to the football field and the basketball court Big Blue was discontinued. In 1987 Big Blue got a second life when Student Athletics Vice President John Mortensen decided that Utah State should still have a mascot and spent $750 on a costume for Big Blue. The costume was somewhat of a disappointment because it was royal blue, not navy, had real animal horns, and was not easy to move around in. Big Blue took another backseat for two seasons until 1989 when a student pestered the cheerleading advisor to let him be the mascot.

A-Day

The Utah State Student Alumni Association hosts A-Day each year. It started as a day set aside each spring for all students and faculty members to give the campus a “thorough grooming.” During A-Day, students would participate in activities, such as projects, free lunch, assemblies, a football game on the QUAD, and a special student body dance. Today A-Day has turned into a week of activities and service projects. Some of the most popular include True Aggie Night, Day on the Quad, a 5K race, and Senior Celebration.

USU Academic Colleges

Caine College of Arts

Utah State University's Caine College of the Arts represents the broadest interpretation of the arts: art as personal expression, art for art’s sake, art as communication, art as an important social and political force, art for personal enjoyment, and art as a contribution to what it means to be both an individual and a part of the larger cultures that connect us.

College of Agriculture and Applied Sciences

Agriculture today is a dynamic, rapidly changing industry. It includes more than farming or producing food and fiber. It embodies all the occupations connected with the production, processing, marketing, and distribution of farm products.

College of Engineering

The overall mission of the College of Engineering is to prepare engineers and technologists to work in a complex technological world and create a better future by solving today's problems, engage in research and development that will improve engineering design and practice, and extend knowledge and research to industry and government.

College of Humanities and Social Sciences

Within the College of Humanities and Social Sciences are found those departments which provide career preparation in some of the most interesting and vital academic fields: the study of society, the governing of society and its history, communication in a number of languages, the various aspects of culture.

College of Science

"Prove it." Haven't heard that statement since you were on the grade-school playground? Well, get ready to hear it again. For the students and professors in Utah State's College of Science, it's the spirited challenge to discover that enlivens classrooms and labs with intellectual curiosity and inspires our students and faculty to create new knowledge for the betterment of humankind.

Emma Eccles Jones College of Education and Human Service

The Emma Eccles Jones College of Education and Human Services provides preparation programs for prospective teachers, for counselors and other professional personnel in education, and for professionals in the human services area and in corporate settings.

Jon M. Huntsman School of Business

As the Jon M. Huntsman School of Business we strive to create a supportive environment to help students become well-rounded, hard-working individuals in business and life. Our pillars of excellence include: Ethical Leadership, Entrepreneurial Spirit, Global Vision, and Analytical Rigor. Because of our motto 'Dare Mighty Things' our students are better prepared for real world experiences.

S.J. and Jessie E Quinney College of Natural Resources

The earth we live on. The air we breathe. The water that sustains us. These are the essential elements of life, and students in Utah State's College of Natural Resources (CNR) are the people who will manage them for future generations. They study in a program that's considered one of the best in the country.
